SOCIALISM IS CURSE TO ALL

WORST ENEMY OF SOCIETY, SAYS FATHER O'RYAN.

MOVEMENT IS POWERFUL ONE

LABOR UNIONS AND TRUSTS ARE HIS FOES.

BOTH NATURAL EVOLUTIONS

Inequality a Fundamental Law of Nature, Declares Denver Man at Meeting of Winter Night Club—Judge Cunningham Also Speaks.

That socialism is a worldwide movement menacing all that good citizens hold sacred in the state and nation, a hydra-headed monster [illegible] and more dangerous than most people imagine, is the opinion expressed by the Rev. Father William O'Ryan, parish priest of St. Leo's church in Denver, in an address delivered before the Winter Night club at its regular meeting in the Antlers hotel last night. The meeting was the best attended of the season and Father O'Ryan's address one of the most eloquent heard in this city for some time.

What Father O'Ryan characterized as "the social unrest which has crystallized itself into the form of socialism" was designed as an enemy to all that he loved in the world, closely allied to treason and destruction of all that the forefathers of the nation have built.

Socialism Would Destroy All.

"The greatest single curse to society in the world today," said the speaker, "are the politicians, and under socialism every man, woman and child in the country would by force of circumstances have to be a politician, so that the greatest curse of society would be multiplied like the plagues of Egypt. We in Denver have little [illegible] in our home life by reason of the blatant impudence of the yellow papers with their screaming headlines in red ink, but what little privacy we enjoy in our home life would be swept away by socialism, which would destroy the home and obliterate all social and domestic ties. It attacks all the best ties of married life and is the worst enemy of good citizenship."

Is Powerful Movement.

The speaker quoted figures to show that the movement is not confined to America nor to any insignificant class of citizens, for a large portion of the German reichstag and one-third of the French chamber of deputies are composed of avowed socialists. In all European countries the movement is powerful and backed by very clever, persistent writers and speakers, and in America its exponents are not confined to persons of foreign extraction, but include descendants of many of the best families of American history who are most persistent in their furtherance of the cause.

Inequality Fundamental Law.

The reasons for this movement are to be found largely in the inequality of the distribution of wealth, according to the speaker, who claimed that the abuse of wealth had driven many to seek a remedy in the theories of socialism, the exponents of which are agreed on only one thing, viz: that the wealth of the nation should be divided equally among the individuals of the nation. The fallacy of this doctrine is readily seen in the fact that inequality and not equality is the fundamental law of nature, as seen in the fact that no two men are exactly alike in either physical or mental qualities.

Under socialism the only way in which it would be possible for any man to improve his condition would be above the standard of the common laborer, would be through the influence of those in authority, so that all men would be driven to "wire pulling," as known in the political life of today, to better his condition, and all the great minds would be reduced to inactivity in the proper lines of usefulness. The idea that labor is the source of all wealth is fallacious for the simple reason that the greatest legacies to the human race have been left by the men of great minds and not by the men of great physical strength.

Remedies for Socialism.

In speaking of the checks and remedies for socialism, Father O'Ryan said the chief, the greatest, is to be found in religion and its practical application, for in the religion of the Bible is to be found the remedy for all the ills of the human race and the wrongs which socialism is supposed to combat. True patriotism is another force to be relied upon in the struggle against socialism, for the socialist has no flag and owns allegiance to no country. The greatest enemy to socialism is the man who shows himself a true patriot by working for the best interests of the home, the state and the nation in the community in which he lives.

Labor and Capital.

"A good man who takes an interest in the welfare of his neighbors, his city and his state," said Father O'Ryan, "is doing more to repel the baneful influences of socialism than all the speakers and writers on the subject can achieve by their eloquence. There should be a reasonable regard for the rights of others and a recognition of the fact that there is no real antagonism between capital and labor.

CANNON CHOICE OF HOME STATE

APPLAUSE INTERRUPTS PRAYER

MENTION OF "FAVORITE SON" CAUSES CHEERING.

TARIFF REVISION FAVORED

"Certain New Schedules Must Be Added to the Law; Some of the Present Rates Must Be Lowered, While Some Must Be Repealed Altogether."

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 26.—The Republicans of Illinois today enthusiastically indorsed Joseph Cannon as a candidate for the presidency, indorsed the administration of President Roosevelt, declared in favor of revision of the tariff, and elected four delegates-at-large to the national convention. The men chosen are United States Senators Shelby M. Cullom and Albert J. Hopkins, Governor Charles S. Deneen and Mayor Fred A. Busse of Chicago.

The convention also indorsed the administration of Governor Deneen and that of all other state officers. The candidacy of Governor Deneen to succeed himself was not mentioned, it being understood that only matters of national import were to come before the convention.

For the last two days it had been confidently asserted by the platform builders that the resolutions would favor tariff adjustment instead of revision, it being the idea that "revision is generally accepted as meaning reduction, and "adjustment" might mean the raising of some schedules as well as the lowering of others." In the last moment, however, Senator Boutell arrived from Washington, where he had consulted with Speaker Cannon and other Republican leaders, and the plank adopted today was the result.

Cannon Men in Control.

The Cannon men had things entirely their own way and there was not a whisper of opposition throughout the day. All motions were passed unanimously and without argument and the applause that greeted the reading of the plank indorsing the candidacy of the speaker was great and enthusiastic.

Just before the reading of the platform the convention took an impromptu and sudden adjournment because of a fire in the Leland hotel, and many of the delegates never returned to the hall, spending their time in either watching the fire or in looking for their effects. After an interim of an hour the convention was called to order a second time, and the final part of the program was carried out promptly.

Buckingham Made Chairman.

At 10 o'clock the Republican convention was first called to order by Roy O. West, chairman of the state central committee. The original hour was noon, but last night it was decided to move it forward by two hours for the purpose of allowing delegates to catch the afternoon trains. George Buckingham of Danville was made temporary and permanent chairman.

Prayer Interrupted by Applause.

The first mention of Speaker Cannon's name was in the prayer of Rev. J. M. Francis, who invoked the divine blessing upon him and his career. He was instantly interrupted by an outburst of applause, which put a temporary stop to his prayer.

At the conclusion of the invocation chairman West introduced as the chairman of the convention George T. Buckingham, of Danville, who made a brief address. He opened his speech with an allusion complimentary to the quality of the prominent men Illinois has furnished to the country.

"And," said the speaker, to the accompaniment of enthusiastic cheers, "we stand ready to supply the country with plenty more of the same sort."

He paid an eloquent tribute to the work and public services of Speaker Cannon, also reading to the convention a letter published some months ago, written by President Roosevelt in praise of the speaker—"and this"—said the speaker, "is what the present President of the United States said of the next President of the United States," and the delegates went wild.

"As Wise as Gladstone."

The speaker concluded his address by declaring that Gladstone, when premier at 83, and Bismarck at 80, did their greatest work. "We offer to our country," he said, "a man as wise as Gladstone and brave as Bismarck."

There were no contests. Pending the reports of the committees on permanent organization and resolutions, an address was made by Congressman Henry S. Boutell. The temporary organization was made permanent.

Tariff Resolution.

The tariff resolution passed by the convention is as follows:

"The present tariff law which was passed at the special session of the Fifty-fifth Congress, convened by President McKinley and which was signed July 24, 1897, by that illustrious protectionist, has amply justified all the promises and hopes of its advocates and supporters. It has proven the most scientifically adjusted

AT IT AGAIN.

ON MISSION FOR JAPS

D. W. STEVENS HAD VIEWS ON IMMIGRATION.

His Mission to America Was to Look Into Reported Anti-Japanese Propaganda.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 26.—Pending the arrival here of Joseph I. Porter of Washington, D. C., brother-in-law of the late D. W. Stevens, the remains of the diplomat will remain at the St. Francis hospital. The arrangements for their final disposition will be in the hands of the Japanese consul, Koike, and Dr. Zumwalt, who will act in accordance with the wishes of the relatives when Mr. Porter arrives from the east. Mr. Porter is expected here day after tomorrow.

No intimation has been given as to where the remains will finally be laid, nor what ceremonies will attend the funeral.

TOKIO, March 27.—News of the death of Durham White Stevens in San Francisco reached Tokio at 10 o'clock last night and was made known only to a few persons who received their information from the Associated Press.

Prince Ito later received dispatches confirming the news. The utmost grief is expressed by everyone.

American Ambassador O'Brien said to the Associated Press representative that his sorrow was most sincere. He regarded Mr. Stevens as a true and useful friend. Considering the unobtrusive character of Mr. Stevens, the widespread concern regarding the tragedy is remarkable. It is safe to predict that when the news of his actual death is published, it will arouse intense indignation in all circles. None are more outspoken than the missionaries, especially Americans acquainted in Korea, who regarded Mr. Stevens as their most active friend. One of his last acts before leaving Japan was to secure a subscription of $5,000 for the Young Men's Christian association in Seoul.

Mr. Stevens was consistently a loyal American. He firmly believed that cementing the relations of the two countries would result in increasing the influence of America in the far east, insure peace, and benefit Japan. During the recent immigration negotiations, he wielded great influence. He advocated the complete stoppage of Japanese emigration and urged the adoption of the most stringent regulations. He pressed these views, which ultimately were accepted.

Mr. Stevens was also a consistent friend of Japan. He believed that the control of Korea by Japan without actual annexation would mean finally the reclamation of that country from the consequences of generations of corruption.

The principal purpose of his visit to Washington at this time was to place his views before the American government and people and to controvert the statements of organized anti-Japanese propaganda in America.

DENIAL COMES FROM BERLIN

No Official Action Taken in Regard to Minister Hill, It Is Declared. Still a Mystery.

PARIS, March 26.—In the absence of official confirmation either from Washington or Berlin, David Jayne Hill declined today to credit or discuss the report that the German government changed its original attitude and refused to receive the ambassador. The only information that he received locally on the subject was a private telegram from Berlin, saying that the German foreign office has flatly denied that any official action had been taken.

It is learned that Minister Hill is considerably disturbed and mystified by the whole circumstances, as he is aware of nothing either at The Hague conference or during Prince Henry's visit to Washington, that could form a basis for objection to him as American ambassador. After Prince Henry's visit to Washington, the prince presented to Mr. Hill, who was then assistant secretary of state, a large photograph of himself, inscribed with his autograph, as a testimonial of thanks.

KNICKERBOCKER REOPENS

Suspended Trust Company Resumes Business.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The Knickerbocker Trust company, which suspended payment on October 23 last, after sustaining a run of its depositors, was reopened for business today with new management and under an agreement by which the depositors may withdraw only about one-third of the $36,000,000 on the books at once. Payment of the remainder is due at intervals for two and a half years.

QUAKE SHAKES MEXICO

FOUR PERSONS INJURED, ONE MORTALLY.

Two Distinct Shocks Felt at Mexico City—Walls Cracked, Clocks Stopped—Much Damage.

MEXICO CITY, March 26.—Mexico City was visited by two severe earthquake shocks today, the first shock occurred at 4:20 o'clock this afternoon, lasting two minutes and 28 seconds. No lives were lost and the property damage was insignificant. The shock was very similar to that felt in this city about a year ago. At the national observatory it was stated that the needle traveled the entire distance of the dial. That no property loss resulted is due, according to scientists, to the fact that the City of Mexico rests on the spongy bed of an old lake.

A second and much more severe earthquake shock occurred at 9:47 o'clock tonight. Walls were cracked and clocks all over the city were stopped. The theater crowds rushed into the streets. The people are considerably alarmed over the repeated shocks. No great damage has yet been reported, though for a time telegraphic communication was interrupted.

Investigation shows that four people were injured during the earthquake, one mortally. The shock was felt over an area of some 500 miles, from north to south, expending its force at Guanajuato on the north and Rincon Atonjo on the south. Calle San Francisco, the main thoroughfare of the city, was cracked in many places for many blocks. It is feared here that the shocks will be repeated and few are sleeping soundly tonight. It has been many years since such successive shocks of any severity have been felt here. All of the injured are Mexicans.

BEALL OF TEXAS IS ABUSIVE IN HOUSE.

Enjoys Power Rightly Belonging to Legislature and Judiciary, He Says—Senate Argument.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—More shafts of sarcasm and invective were aimed at President Roosevelt in the House today. In one of the most scathing arraignments of a public official ever heard in that chamber, Mr. Beall of Texas charged the President with having been guilty of "a disgusting usurpation of power not only toward the national legislature but the judiciary as well. Congress, he said, abdicated to him its powers and the judiciary of the country felt the effect of his influence. What and the future know," he declared, "just what niche he is to occupy in the temple of his country."

When the agricultural appropriation bill was read for discussion today, Mr. Macon of Arkansas endeavored to have inserted as a new provision his bill prohibiting the dealing in futures in agricultural products, but the chair sustained a point of order against it. Mr. Scott of Kansas, in charge of the bill, expressed his entire sympathy with the proposition, which, however, he insisted should be acted on independently.

Mr. Mann of Illinois raised a storm of discussing by directing attention to the fact that all of the 18 new weather stations provided by the bill were to be placed in states having representation on the agricultural committee.

JEROME DEFENDS SELF

TRIAL OF NEW YORK'S DISTRICT'S ATTORNEY STARTS.

Self-Confessed Bribe-Taking Juror for Street Railway Company Damaging Witness.

NEW YORK, March 26.—William H. Tillinghast, the self-confessed bribe-taking juror in the interests of the Metropolitan Street Railway company, was the chief witness at the hearing which was begun today on the charge preferred with the governor against District Attorney Jerome. The charges of neglect of duty were made by a committee of stockholders of the Metropolitan Street Railway headed by William F. King. The proceedings were before former Chief Justice Andrews of the court of appeals, who was appointed by Governor Hughes to take evidence for and against the accused official.

Franklin Pierce appeared as counsel for the complaining committee and Mr. Jerome conducted his own defense.

The first of the 20 odd allegations taken up was that accusing Mr. Jerome of neglect in the prosecution of the Tillinghast and other cases of alleged jury bribery by the Metropolitan Street Railway company, in 1900-2, in personal injury cases in the city courts and other cases in the supreme court.

"Mr. Jerome has misapprehended the charges which we make," said Mr. Pierce in his opening address, "because he has set up the answer that he could not have convicted because the evidence was insufficient. The charge is that he procured evidence which at one time could have secured a conviction; that this evidence was put to one side; that when Tillinghast went to Justice Seabury he was at once arrested and sent to the island.

"When William H. Tillinghast admitted that he received $40 from the Metropolitan in payment for his labor as a juror from the commencement to the end of the whole transaction, Mr. Jerome appeared, more in the capacity of attorney for the railroad company, seeing that indictments were not found. At the trial he appeared as counsel, it seems, and began to cross-examine the witness to show that he was a man of bad character."

In answer to Mr. Pierce's question, Tillinghast went over in detail his part in the Metropolitan bribery cases, in which he received money, he said, from Stanley Bogg and other agents of the Metropolitan for his services as a juryman. He said that he sat as a juror in perhaps 75 cases in which the Metropolitan was a defendant. He voted, he said, in favor of the company, except when he thought it a wiser plan that damages against the company be allowed. For this he received, he said, from $25 to $50 a week. He was asked only a few questions by counsel for the defense when qualifying as a juror, and was promptly accepted as a juror. Upon cross-examination Tillinghast admitted that he had served two prison sentences.

WOULDN'T TALK TO REPORTERS

The Duke of the Abruzzi Will Not Deny nor Confirm His Reported Engagement to Miss Elkins.

QUEENSTOWN, March 26.—On the arrival of the steamship Lusitania here this morning, the Duke of the Abruzzi, who was a passenger aboard, was found in his stateroom alone. He said to newspaper reporters that he wished to be left alone. Asked with reference to his reported engagement to Miss Elkins, he replied:

"I don't wish to speak on that subject."

In reply to a question as to whether or not it was true that he had actually admitted such an engagement, the duke simply repeated that he did not wish to speak on the subject and ended the interview by closing the door.

It was stated by those on board the Lusitania that the duke had been very reserved during the passage. He proceeded to Liverpool on the Lusitania.

TIGERS TO PLAY TOMORROW

High School Baseball Team Arranges Game With Rock Island Amateurs.

The Colorado Springs High School baseball team has scheduled a game for tomorrow with the fast bunch of local ball tossers that has been organized as the Rock Island nine. The game will be played on the High School field, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. The Terrors, although their work has been handicapped a bit by the inability of several of the players to practice regularly because of rehearsals of "Charley's Aunt," the farce that is to be given to raise funds for the athletic association, are in good condition, and are improving steadily.

The Rock Island team contains a number of the best local amateurs, among whom the pitcher, Hastings, was with the High School squad this spring before he was compelled to quit school to go to work. The aggregation hopes to defeat the Terrors, who to date have been licked only by Colorado College.

PUEBLO SIGNS G. F. ACKLEY

Former Tiger Twirler Gets Berth in Western League.

George F. Ackley, who pitched for Colorado College last spring and was elected captain of this year's team, but failed to return to school, has been signed by Manager Patterson of the Pueblo Western league club. He is now working out with the members of the team, who reported on Wednesday at Pueblo for the preliminary training. Ackley is considered a good man by the Indians, who were favorably impressed with his work with the Tigers last year, particularly in the game against the Pueblo team early in the season.

TIGERS PLAY SACRED HEART

College Ball Tossers will go to Denver Tomorrow for Opening Game.

Colorado College will play its first college game tomorrow when it goes to Denver to meet the fast Sacred Heart college nine, a team which annually gives it a hard fight. The team that will make the trip will consist of the same aggregation that has been working regularly during the last few weeks. Either Hyder or Van Stone will do the pitching and Diesz the catching, with Devine on first, Jones on second, Sherry at short, Captain Schmid on third, and Wilson, Sinton, Sidden and Morris, fielders.

The Sacred Heart team is said to be in good shape for this game, which will open its season. Several of the men on the squad have been developing unexpected ability during the last few days and the team is considered in good shape to give the Tigers a hard rub.

RANCHMEN HAVE BIG ROW

Several Shots Are Fired and One Arrest Made Upon Call Is Promptly Answered.

As a result of a neighborhood row among ranchmen living 12 miles south of Calhan, one of the disturbers of the peace was brought to the county jail last night at 9 o'clock, and it is expected that his accusers will be in the city today to swear out a warrant against him charging some offense ranging from disturbing the peace to attempted murder.

A report of the disturbance reached the city yesterday morning, stating that a ranchman had gone crazy and was running amuck with a gun. Deputy Sheriff Harry Alward and County Physician H. L. Richardson hurried to the scene of the trouble in an automobile, returning last night.

It was found that the man doing the shooting was not crazy nor had anyone been shot. The prisoner claims that he did the shooting in self-defense, charging that his accusers were the aggressors in the fight.

We must always remember that labor organizations are in no way allied with socialism, nor are trusts the great cause of socialism, for both can be made great influences for good in their respective fields. They are both natural evolutions of modern society and properly regulated, are the strongest enemies socialism can have. Two of the finest men I ever knew are Samuel Gompers and John Mitchell, the great labor leaders."

Cunningham Gives Views.

At the conclusion of the address, President O. B. Wilcox called upon former Judge L. W. Cunningham, referring to him as a man who had made a profound study of the subject, for a few words. Mr. Cunningham responded in a brief address in which he took issue on some points with the arguments of Father O'Ryan and defended socialism, rightly interpreted on the ground that its highest aim was the perfection of the individual.

"When socialism has advanced so far in its propaganda," said Judge Cunningham, "that all men are absolutely just and perfect as they ought to be, the world will have arrived at the ideal which socialism aims at and it will not matter whether the form of government under which society lives will be known by the name of socialism or not. There is a difference between socialism and socializing and I think that Father O'Ryan in many of his arguments is clearly facing in the direction held by the biggest exponents of socialism—the perfection of the individual."

and therefore the best tariff that was ever placed on the statute book. Its beneficent influence abundant revenues have flowed into the national treasury, our domestic commerce has expanded beyond all expectations, the volume of our export trade has constantly increased until within the past six months it has reached the high water mark; the ratio of our manufactured exports has steadily advanced; our farmers have received the highest prices and our mechanics and other workmen the highest wages that have ever been paid and our citizens of all classes have enjoyed a greater degree of prosperity than has ever prevailed during a like period in any other country.

The broadening of the home market and the increased foreign demand for our products have stimulated competition and this competition has brought out manifold new discoveries and inventions which have materially altered the cost of production both at home and abroad of almost every article of commerce. The long continuance of the benefits conferred by the present tariff has produced an industrial situation that suggests the possibility of securing by the revision of the tariff additional benefits for the people of the United States, through a wise continuance of the policy of protection.

New Schedule Necessary.

It is now apparent that in order to maintain the scientific accuracy of the tariff, remove inequalities and prevent injustice, some new schedules must be added to the law, some of the present rates must be lowered while some must be repealed altogether. The very success of the present tariff demonstrates the wisdom of revising it to conform to the improved conditions which it has produced. We believe that the people of the United States will profit by a new tariff, but it must be a Republican tariff, a protective tariff, a tariff which recognizes in all its parts the difference between American and foreign wages, the difference between the high scale of living of American wage earners and the scale of living imposed by insufficient wages upon foreign workmen.

We therefore recommend to our delegates, the Republican national convention, that they urge upon the convention the wisdom of declaring for a revision of the tariff to be made at the next session of congress or at a special session of the Sixty-first Congress to be convened immediately after the inauguration of the next president, March 4, 1909.

Minimum and Maximum Rates.

We believe that our tariff should contain a provision for minimum and maximum rates—the minimum rates giving full protection, the maximum rates to be invoked for retaliating upon foreign countries that discriminate against American products. We believe that two main ideas should pervade all the provisions of the tariff. First that the protective principle so prevail in all the schedules that the American farmers, workmen and producers shall be given the first call on the home market and second that no illegal or unjust combination, trust or monopoly shall find encouragement or shelter in any of its provisions.

To the end that the revision of the tariff may be accomplished with the greatest possible gain and the least possible loss we suggest to our senators and representatives in Congress that they seek to secure at once the passage in their respective houses of resolutions directing the proper committees to proceed immediately to collect the preliminary information necessary for a revision of the tariff, that when the work is entered upon all parties in interest may be heard and the law framed, discussed and passed without delay and without any disturbance of the financial and industrial interests of the country.

Mr. Scott, however, maintained that all of them were placed in the bill on the recommendation of the secretary of agriculture and the chief of the weather bureau.

On a point of order the several new stations were stricken from the bill. These stations were proposed to be located in Texas, Kansas, Virginia, Michigan, Vermont, Missouri and Indiana.

The bill was laid aside at 5 p. m. and the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Although the Senate met today with the intention of devoting the entire time of the session to the currency bill, the credentials of Senator-elect John Walker Smith of Maryland early became the subject of a discussion which consumed nearly four hours and destroyed all hope of disposing of the currency bill before adjournment today. The result of the debate on the propriety of the swearing in of Mr. Smith resulted in a vote of 34 to 28 in favor of receiving his credentials and leaving the irregularity of his election to be determined by the committee on privileges and elections.

Mr. Burrows of Michigan, chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, objected to the admission of the senator-elect on the ground that the law requires that two Tuesdays shall intervene between the time notice of a vacancy in the Senate is given and an election. As the late Senator Whyte died on Tuesday and his successor was chosen on the following Tuesday, Mr. Burrows claimed that the law had not been complied with.

Senator Rayner claimed that the statute had been complied with; that to deny his colleague his seat would make necessary an extra session of the legislature of Maryland, at a cost of $50,000, and that even if the contention of the chairman of the committee on privileges and elections should prove to be correct, Senator Smith should be sworn in and his case considered by the proper committee.

TILLMAN IMPROVES SLOWLY

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 26.—Dr. J. W. Babcock of this city, who is Senator Tillman's closest medical adviser, tonight said that Senator Tillman dictated the following statement:

"I am improving, but improving slowly. While I do not [illegible] any indications of organic trouble, I feel that I will not get strong enough to assume work in Washington this year."

EVANS ON ARMOR BELT

EXPRESSES VIEWS REGARDING POSITON OF STRIP.

Believes Ships Are Properly Protected Under Normal Conditions. Largely Matter of Opinion.

WASHINGTON, March 26. Secretary Metcalf today made public the views of Admiral Evans regarding the location of the armor belt on battleships which he has just received in a lengthy report from the admiral on this and other subjects connected with the voyage of the Atlantic fleet to the Pacific coast. The admiral says:

"Judging from the figures contained in the several replies from commanding officers, which relate to this subject, it would appear that better protection might have been afforded had those belts been originally placed between six inches and one foot higher, this on the theory that the commanding officer would admit sufficient water before an action to sink the belt to within about 18 inches above the water line. But even this is open to question, for it has been noted that even when heavy laden and in the smooth, moderate seas which have thus far characterized this cruise, the ships frequently expose their entire belt and the bottom plating beneath. Under the sea conditions in which battles may be fought, a belt of eight feet in width, if considered alone, is too narrow to afford the desired protection, wherever it may be placed; and the question becomes an academic discussion with certain arguments on each side. It is understood that on the latest ships this question is of little import, as the citadel armor is but one inch less in thickness than that on the water line, and for those ships already built it is believed that when the bridges are removed and all weights which will be landed should war break out, are taken into consideration, the ship will rise to the six to twelve inches which is believed to be the maximum that it could be desired to raise them."

The report of Admiral Evans is made in accordance with instructions given him by Secretary Metcalf before he sailed from Hampton Roads. The secretary said it had no reference whatever to the criticisms of naval construction which have appeared since the sailing of the fleet.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., March 26.—Bryan's name came lustily from every Democratic throat at the state convention today. Democrats who have been loyal to the Nebraskan through all the years were selected as delegates-at-large, the platform adopted being a recast of Bryan's Nebraska platform and the indorsement of Mr. Bryan in the Omaha platform made stronger and more eloquent by his Iowa admirers. Every mention of his name was greeted with storms of cheering and applause.

NEGRO GAMBLERS RAIDED.

Wholesale Arrests Made by Police in Sudden Swoop on Tent House.

While engaged in crap shooting and playing poker, in a tent in the rear of the house at 410 South Wahsatch avenue last night, seven negroes were arrested in a raid made on the place by four officers headed by Detective Patton. The officers took the patrol wagon with them, breaking in on the festive occasion at 10:40 o'clock, when the playing was at its height.

The place has been under surveillance for some time, but the officers waited until sure of the patrons. The names given by the men arrested were: Guy Smith, John Peter, Carl Trotter, George Motley, John Venable, A. H. Marrow and Joe Lambert. None of the prisoners was recognized as an old offender.

FLEET BUSY NIGHT AND DAY

Sudden Call for Drill and Gun Practice in Dead of Night Spectacle Not to Be Forgotten.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 26.—Captain Albert Hyder, commanding the launch Norah, which returned last evening with mail from Magdalena bay, in an interview today related some of the most recent gossip relating to the movement of the battleship fleet, which he describes as the "busiest" assemblage of war machines ever seen on the west coast of America.

Captain Hyder said: "All day long and far into the night, target practice and sea maneuvers take up the time of the officers and men. No shore leave is allowed, the only men on shore being the mail and dispatch bearers. The men who went down to Magdalena bay expecting to do business with the sailors, have quit and departed.

"Every day the orders scatter the various vessels to specially assigned duties and almost all of the time the fleet is hidden in the magnificent distances of the bay. Target practice is taking up the major portion of the time, at least such was the case during the five days that the Norah was at anchor in the bay. The sudden call for drill and gun practice is liable to come at any minute in the dead of night. I saw the night call once, and I will never forget it. The way that big fleet came to life and scattered for business was in itself a spectacle worth the long trip to Magdalena bay to witness."

WILLIAMS GIVES HIS ULTIMATUM

combination in restraint of trade, and therefore illegal, they have virtually upheld the employer in his assertion of a right to blacklist. Because one federal court went so far as to say that because the employer had a right to discharge without giving any notice at all, the employer had a right to discharge because the discharged man was a member of a labor union. It is a poor suit that does not work both ways. Another decision of a federal court—the decision by Judge Gould—has gone so far as to say that a labor man's newspaper should not publish the names of a firm under the heading, "We Don't Patronize." A man has a right to patronize or not to patronize anybody, according to his own free will, and he therefore has the right to publish those whom he does not patronize."

Print Paper on Free List.

The President's recommendation of a law to place wood pulp on the free list, "with a corresponding reduction upon paper made from wood pulp when they come from any country that does not put an export duty upon them," meets with Mr. Williams' approval, except that it does not go quite far enough. Not only ought wood pulp to be placed upon the free list, he says, but print paper ought to be placed there also. The publishers will not be very much benefited by the placing of wood pulp upon the free list if there be only a slight reduction of the duty upon print paper.

Mr. Williams says: "The President's preparation for tariff revision by consideration at the hands of a committee composed of members of the House and Senate and so-called experts, is both cumbersome and useless. The very best possible tariff commission is a commission consisting of the representatives of the people selected by the people in the interest of the people."

LELAND HOTEL ON FIRE.

Delegates to State Convention at Springfield, Ill., Scared.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 26.—The Leland hotel, one of the most widely-known hotels in the country, which has been the center of political gatherings for the last three days, was severely damaged by fire today, entailing a loss on the proprietors, the Wiggins estate, of about $75,000. The fire broke out while the Republican state convention was in session three squares away, and when the delegates received word that the hotel was afire wildly for the doors and hastened burning they leaped from their chairs to save their effects.

No lives were lost, nor was any one injured.

MORE RESIDENCES NEEDED.

PEOPLE who have devoted a part of their spare time recently to the doubtful joys of house-hunting will better appreciate the remarks made by Mr. A. P. Martin, an official of the Colorado Springs Real Estate Exchange, in the interview printed in today's paper. Mr. Martin declares that the demand for modern houses is far ahead of the supply, and that unless many new houses are built this spring new-comers will be forced to store their goods in warehouses.

This condition has been coming on for some time. In the building boom of 1900-01 more houses were constructed than were needed, but the demand gradually caught up with the supply, and it is certain that there would have been renewed building activity two or three years ago if it had not been for the high price of labor and materials. For a while building was almost at a standstill, but the demand continued and an empty house became a rarity.

Most of the applications are for cottages at a moderate rental—from $20 to $30 a month, and of course the prospective tenant wants them modern and "close in." But the time has passed when modern houses at such prices can be found "close in." It is safe to say that if some benevolent individual would buy up every vacant lot north of Pikes Peak Avenue and put on it a five or six-room cottage he could rent every one of them at $25, or even $30 a month, but his benevolence would soon bring him to bankruptcy. Colorado Springs has grown to the stage where such houses can only be had in the outlying parts, but fortunately those parts are all desirable as residence locations. The East Side commands a finer view of the mountains than any other section of the city, and almost any piece of property there is certain to appreciate in value at a rapid rate. Another important point is that the street railway system touches every part of the city, and one would have a good deal of difficulty in finding a residence site otherwise attractive, more than three or four blocks from a car line.

It is practically certain that there will be considerable building activity this spring and summer. The cost of materials has dropped to a point within reach of people other than millionaires, and the cost of labor, if no lower, at least is no higher than it has been in the past, thanks to the willingness of the carpenters to recede from their demand for increased wages. These conditions, together with the certainty that a considerable number of new houses will be rented as soon as completed, are the reasons for a renewal of building which will add not a little to the prosperity of the city during the present year.

EUROPEAN DISLIKE OF AMERICA.

MR. A. B. HEPBURN, a prominent New York financier, returned from Europe a few days ago with a piece of news which isn't news at all, but it got plenty of space in the papers just the same. Mr. Hepburn's message was that with the sole exception of Great Britain we have no friend in Europe; all the other nations regard us as impulsive and self-assertive, as disturbers in the realms of commerce and international politics. In European eyes the United States is an upstart world-power, too strong to be disregarded, but too [illegible] to be affectionately [illegible] on terms of intimacy.

All of this has been quite apparent since the days just before the Spanish-American War. Up to that time Europe had never worried much about us, because we never showed an inclination to mix in her affairs. But the idea of this "fresh" Republic being the aggressor in a war with one of the venerable houses of the European monarchical system was resented as an insult all over the Continent. Everybody remembers the visit of the European diplomatic corps to President McKinley and his efforts to dissuade him from a warlike course. That call was intended to be a threat, but its threatening aspect was removed by the action of the British Ambassador in refusing to join in any action which would put the foreign ministers in any light other than as mere petitioners in the interests of peace.

The events growing out of the war changed the whole relation between the United States and Europe, and the vast commercial gains made by this country in the years immediately following changed them even more. The feeling of dislike for us is perfectly natural, though viewed from a high plane it is not wholly justifiable. The balance of power is a delicate thing, developed through long years of diplomatic whispering, and it is not pleasant to see it disturbed by an interloper. They look upon us much as we look upon Japan—as a nation that is making pretty big pretensions, considering the newness of its claims to being a world-power.

Mr. Hepburn excepts England as the one European nation that is really friendly to us. Without doubt the English government is friendly, and its friendship is sincere. To be otherwise would be sheer folly, for England has everything to gain and nothing to lose by cultivating the closest possible relations with America. As a nation it needs us more than we need it. But so far as the English people are concerned, there is no occasion for any American to deceive himself. Their attitude toward us hasn't changed in a century and a quarter, and probably won't so long as their hypercritical journals can find a flaw in the American character or American institutions.

CANON OR CANYON.

THE United States Geographic Board, which gets together every now and then to decide how we shall spell geographic names, and incidentally to reverse its past decisions, has made another ruling as to the proper spelling of the name of a certain Colorado town. Canon City is the town, and that is the way the Board says its name should be spelled. Not "Cañon City," not "Cañon" City, with the tilde over the n—the little wavy line that looks like a piece of fishing worm.

If the founders of Canon City could have foreseen what a hard time the town would have trying to impress its spelling on the country they probably would have called it Penitentiary Hill, or Jugtown, or something else that's easy. There is really no reason why anybody should seek to distort the spelling of "canon," but there are a lot of people who like to do unreasonable things when orthography is concerned. When they get hold of a word that came into our language from some other language—as "canon" came from the Spanish—they are not content until it is Englished out of all semblance to its former self. Hence, we get "canyon" for "canon."

Now in this enlightened age people are supposed to know—and ninety-nine out of every hundred do know—that "canon" is not pronounced like "cañon," but the orthography-manglers won't let it go at that. They insist on putting in the y to placard the fact that the last syllable begins with the y sound. Of course there can be no objection to the use of the tilde, but as very few print shops are equipped with type so marked, the use of the superfluous y has become quite common. Here in the West where every town has a canon as a scenic annex the Spanish form, minus the diacritical mark, is nearly always used, but in Eastern papers the word is seldom printed without that everlasting and always useless y. It is found in all tenderfoot literature on the West; indeed, the tenderfoot would no more think of spelling "canon" without the y than he would think of spelling "boulder" with a b instead of a w.

The decision of the Geographic Board ought to be a relief to the people of Canon City, and it certainly will be if the Board stands pat. But the Board reverses itself so often and reversed itself once on this particular word—that there is no telling when it will again place its seal of approval on the outlandish "canyon."

It seems that the Russian war didn't end with the Treaty of Portsmouth, after all. It is now being fought out on the dueling ground.

MITCHELL.

From the Washington Star.

In John Mitchell organized labor has had a sagacious and successful leader. He has participated with credit to himself and benefit to his constituents in some of the most important negotiations between capital and labor the past ten years have known. His temper is good, and his self-command conspicuous. And his head is clear. He has at all times impressed the country as a man seeking a square deal for both sides. His task at times has been all the more difficult because of the number of foreigners in the coal miners' union—men new to our institutions. Mr. Mitchell's health has been poor and his activity of late lessened on that account, but a rest should restore him, and while he lives labor will enjoy good advice from him.

WORK FOR THE UNEMPLOYED IN CANADA.

From the Interior.

The larger cities of Canada, like those of the States, have had unusually large colonies of unemployed to care for this winter, but the prospects for the approaching outdoor working season are far from unencouraging. Over 50,000 men, it is said, will be employed upon railroad construction alone. The Grand Trunk Pacific west of Winnipeg will call for 14,000, and contractors estimate their needs at 35,000, while the transcontinental railway commissioners will construct four sections in New Brunswick and Ontario covering 365 miles. The number of immigrants into the Dominion last year increased 61,464, with an aggregate of 277,376, though the incomers from the United States—36,561 were 7,231 fewer than in 1906. Many of these are probably counted among the idle, but those who were fitted for agriculture have generally fared better. Some of the farmers in Alberta and Saskatchewan were so unfortunate with their crops that the government has arranged to offer them a $1,500,000 loan at 3½ per cent for the purchase of seed grain. But the area affected is comparatively small, and in general the farming situation is good, while the coming demands for labor will take care of the unemployed.

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

If there ever was a hope that the Kentucky night riders would become ashamed of themselves and abandon their lawless performances that hope has now disappeared. On the contrary, having destroyed property until the novelty and excitement of it has worn off, they have now begun the more savage amusement of shedding innocent blood.

Not only has Farmer Hedges, residing near Carlisle, been called to his door in the night and shot down, but even the judge and commonwealth's attorney at Paducah who are engaged in investigating the outrages, as a part of their official duty and as required by law, have received intimations that they will share the same fate unless they desist. Everything points to a repetition of the Breathitt county vendetta in the white burley tobacco district. The results are appalling. The farmers who are not permitted to raise tobacco cannot subsist on other crops and are fleeing for their lives. The entire region, it appears, is to be deserted and devastated.

This situation, which has for some time been a disgrace to the state of Kentucky, has now become a reproach to the whole country. The national authorities are adopting more and more stringent measures for preventing the immigration of foreign-born anarchists and for deporting those that have come hither, and at the same time there exists in one of the oldest communities in America a type of anarchy as irrational, cruel and abhorrent to a Christian civilization as anything that exists in Russia.

The psychology of the movement, however, is peculiar. The night riders are good men gone astray. Says Governor Willson: "They are good people, well educated in the schools, Christians, honest and good citizens, but almighty stubborn." This description might have been good enough if it had been expressed in the past tense. But if nothing was a crime which was remotely connected with religion, education and good citizenship the history of the world would need to be rewritten. Anarchy is anarchy.

LESSONS OF FLOOD AND DROUTH.

From the New York Tribune.

The season of floods is here again, with multiplied and increasing reports of danger, disaster and loss. Thus at Pittsburg, while there is a feeling of profound relief because the flood is not so great as was feared, we are told that the loss is enormous, scores of industrial plants are submerged and tens of thousands of workmen are idle. Other large cities are suffering, or are menaced, smaller communities are ravaged and rural lands and property beyond computation are devastated. A few months hence the same regions will be suffering drouth. Commerce on the rivers will be suspended or impeded because of low water and smaller streams will be dried up or so shrunken as to be worthless. Where a century ago the reservoirs of nature maintained a fairly equable flow the year around there are now violent and disastrous alternations of flood and drouth. It has been so for years, it is getting worse with every new year, and it will continue to get worse until the states and the nation adopt a policy worthy of rational beings capable of learning from observation and experience.

There are those who affect to oppose the creation of forest reserves in the White and Appalachian mountains because of the enormous expense involved. It would cost millions of dollars, no doubt. Monstrous! Yet it is estimated by competent authorities that manufacturing and other establishments last year suffered losses of more than $100,000,000 from floods, the greater part of which could have been prevented. It is not to be supposed that all freshets and floods or all drouths could be prevented by any system of forestry, but it is perfectly certain that a considerable part of them could be. It is well within the bounds of credibility that the floods and drouths which could thus be prevented cause each year many times more than the cost of creating the forest reserves which would prevent them. If a loss of $100,000,000 a year can be reduced one-half, or even one-tenth, by a single expenditure of $10,000,000, common business sense would seem to indicate the latter as a singularly desirable and profitable investment.

Bills are now pending before Congress for the creation of White Mountain and Appalachian forest reserves. They have been pending for a long time, to the discredit of those responsible for the delay. They are strongly favored by all who regard the subject with intelligence and discretion. Their passage is earnestly urged by public spirited men and by civic, commercial and industrial organizations. They ought to be enacted at once. Delay is trebly foolish, for it means yearly recurrence of losses far greater than the possible cost of the work, an increased cost of the work itself, and increased difficulties in the effective performance of it. The prudent, rational and economical policy is that recently set forth by the National Association of Manufacturers in a memorial declaring "that the necessary legislation should be immediately enacted by Congress to create the national forest reserves known as the White Mountain and Appalachian reserves."

THE MAN AND HIS JOB

By Herbert J. Hapgood.

Don't wait to be told. Act on your own initiative, and make of yourself a being distinct and self-reliant.

When a thing is to be done, do it. Don't wait for the next man, but you yourself perform the act, accomplish the result and receive the credit.

Many men of ability are content to carry out the orders of others, and it is only when the unexpected happens that they are forced to be independent and made to stand on their own originality. "I attribute my start in life to one day when my boss went to the circus," said a successful merchant. "He left explicit instructions regarding every detail of the business. My opportunity arrived, however, when the building next door caught fire, and I had to direct the work of protecting our goods. The boss had never told me what to do in case of fire, and for the first time in my life I had to act on my own initiative."

It takes a good man to execute another man's plans, but the man who makes his own plans is a genius.

Be original. If envy is ignorance, then imitation is suicide, and the man who waits to be told what to do next will never be in a position to direct the work of others.

Depend neither on your employer nor on your fellow employe to solve the problems arising in every day business. Better make a break than not make anything.

Trust yourself and don't be a coward, pinched in the corner of stagnant conservatism.

GOOD PRESCRIPTION

TO RELIEVE ALL CATARRH SUFFERERS HERE

Make Some Up and Try It, as It Does the Work Promptly.

The coming months will be a harvest for the doctors and patent medicine manufacturers, unless great care is taken to keep the feet dry, also dress warmly.

This advice should be heeded by all who are subject to rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles and especially catarrh. While the latter is considered by most sufferers an incurable disease, there are few men or women who will fail to experience great relief from the following simple home prescription, and, if taken in time, it will prevent an attack of catarrh during the entire season.

Here is the prescription, which any one can mix: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

The Compound Kargon in this prescription acts directly upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys to make them filter and strain from the blood, the poisons that produce all forms of catarrhal affections. Relief is often felt even after the first few doses and it is seldom that the sufferer ever experiences a return attack within the year.

This prescription makes a splendid remedy for all forms of blood disorders and such symptoms as lame back, bladder weaknesses and rheumatism pains are entirely dispelled.

As this valuable, though simple, recipe comes from a thoroughly reliable source, it should be heeded by every afflicted reader.

BRAKEMAN BADLY HURT

J. H. Morrison May Die as Result of Injuries.

J. H. Morrison, a brakeman on the Short Line road, who lives at 1002 Colorado avenue, sustained injuries which may result fatally while performing his duties in the Short Line yards yesterday morning, at 9:30 o'clock. He was on the top of a refrigerator car, which was being switched, and was trying to tighten the hand brake with a heavy club as a lever. The catch on the brake wheel slipped and released the wheel so that it turned backwards with such force that it whirled the club against Morrison's stomach. The force of the blow knocked the man from the car, who, on reaching the ground, rolled down a 15-foot embankment. He was found by another brakeman and taken to St. Francis hospital. Little hope is held out for his recovery. Morrison is married and about 40 years old.

MARRIAGE ENDS TROUBLE

Miss Leibundgut Succeeds in Bringing Thon to Time.

After following William H. Thon from Belleville, Ill., to Missouri, and finally to Colorado Springs, Miss Ida Leibundgut, a Swede, 18 years of age, became the wife of her recreant lover yesterday afternoon in the court of Justice Dunnington, the license having been taken out by Humane Officer J. F. Neff while the prospective husband was lying in the county jail, from which place he was brought to make the matrimonial vows. Thon, who is a musician, 28 years of age, was arrested by the police of this city last week on information furnished by the girl.

For some days the young man, who had fled from Illinois to avoid the woman, persisted in his refusal to marry, although he confessed that his relations with the girl had been altogether too intimate. The law in this state makes such a crime a felony, and after Thon had been shown the statutes and been given some wholesome advice by Justice Ruby and other officials, he decided that Cupid's knot was preferable to a year or two in the penitentiary and meekly allowed himself to be led to the matrimonial alter.

NOT GUILTY OF ASSAULT

Jesse Randol Acquitted in Justice Dunnington's Court.

"Not guilty," was the verdict of the jury that heard the evidence against Jesse Randol on a charge of assault preferred by his brother-in-law, C. E. Conwell, in the court of Justice Dunnington, yesterday afternoon.

The case grew out of the alleged attempt of Randol to take his little child away from Conwell, who was taking it on a street car to the court house, where a charge of nonsupport against Randol, preferred by his wife, was up for hearing. Randol seized the child and made an attempt to get away on the street, but was followed by Conwell, and a scuffle ensued.

On the nonsupport charge Randol was sentenced to a term of 90 days in the county jail, on Wednesday, by Justice Ruby, and yesterday was brought from the jail to answer the charge of assault.

EVIDENCE OF MURDER

"HUTCH" STEVENS UNDOUBTEDLY MET WITH FOUL PLAY.

Searching Party Finds His Blood-Stained Vest, but Fails to Locate Body.

Word received by The Gazette from Samuel Stevens, a nephew of "Hutch" Stevens, the well-known Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek prospector who, about two months ago, was reported mysteriously missing from his claims near Lovelock, Nev., seems to remove all doubt that his uncle met with foul play soon after he had opened up a rich mine.

In a letter to The Gazette, Mr. Stevens tells of the search made by himself and two brothers of his uncle, the only result being the finding of a blood-stained vest near the trail leading to the old prospector's claim. The searching party of three members was unable to find out more than was published in The Gazette at the time Samuel Stevens left for Nevada, in January.

"Hutch" Stevens was known throughout the mining camps of the state, being one of the early prospectors in the west. He left Cripple Creek some two years ago to try his fortune in Nevada.

Evidence of Foul Play.

When last heard from he reported having made a rich strike in the American Canon district of the Humboldt range. This was just prior to December 8, the last day on which he was seen alive. A stage driver of the district saw him and reported that he was apparently jubilant over the rich strike he had made. Afterwards, it was found that his dinner was prepared, but untouched, in his tent, leading to the belief that he was called away from his property to his death at the hands of murderers, who evidently hoped to take possession of his claim. It is not known whether he had much money or rich ore about the place.

Crime Carefully Concealed.

Sam Stevens was accompanied by Peter Stevens of Salt Lake City, and Charles Stevens of Los Angeles, brothers of the missing man, in the search for the remains. All three were interested in the properties that "Hutch" Stevens had acquired in Nevada. They spent many weeks in the search, which resulted only in finding the man's blood-stained vest. The men are convinced that Stevens met his death at the hands of assassins, and that the body was buried in some secluded part of the country to hide any traces of the crime.

According to the letter received by The Gazette, the searching party has just returned to Lovelocks, Nev., from the claims which the missing man had been working.

The convincing proof of the death of Mr. Stevens will be received with sincere sorrow by many mining men in Colorado Springs.

MUSIC FESTIVAL SUNDAY

MATINEE FOLLOWED BY A DOUBLE CONCERT TONIGHT.

Madame Blauvelt Will Appear this Evening in Connection With Orchestra Concert.

Owing to the delay of her train, Madame Lillian Blauvelt did not arrive in this city until 10:30 o'clock last night and was unable to give her concert at the Opera House. However, she will sing this evening, giving several numbers previous to the Chicago Symphony program, thus making the concert a double one.

Charles L. Hall, manager of the music festival series, received a telegram early yesterday afternoon from Madame Blauvelt, stating that she would not be able to reach this city in time for the concert. He immediately left for Pueblo to arrange with the manager of the Chicago Symphony orchestra for Madame Blauvelt to sing this evening in connection with the orchestra's concert. Mr. Hall met Madame Blauvelt in Pueblo and returned to this city with her in order to arrange the numbers which she will sing tonight.

ADOLPH ROSENBRICKER,
Noted Conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra at the Opera House Tomorrow.

To Give Several Numbers.

Mme. Blauvelt's part in this evening's concert will include most of the program which she was to have sung last night. She will open the concert with Schubert's "Der Hirt auf dem Felsen," accompanied by cello and piano. She will also sing Strauss' famous concert piece, "Voce de Primavera." Mr. Rosenthal, cellist, will play "Hungarian Rhapsodie," by Popper. Miss Edith Kellogg will play the accompaniments.

The afternoon concert will begin at 2:30 o'clock, and the night concert will commence at 8:15, promptly, owing to its great length.

The two programs to be given here by the Chicago Symphony orchestra today are most representative and will give the music lovers of this city an opportunity to hear the best in the line of orchestral music. Svensden's "Coronation March" will open the afternoon program. The Allegretto ("Bridal Song") and the Andante ("In the Garden"), from Goldmark's "Rustic Wedding" symphony, will be played at the matinee, as will also two of Brahms' "Hungarian Dances." Wagner will be represented by "The Song of the Rhine Daughters," from "The Rhinegold," the introduction of the Nibelung Ring dramas. Tschaikowsky's overture, "1812," will end the afternoon program.

Evening Program.

The evening program will consist of two parts, the first part being of orchestral music, and the latter of the rendition by a chorus of 100 local voices of Goring Thomas' "The Swan and the Skylark" accompanied by the orchestra. A notable number on the evening program is the "Tannhauser" overture, by Wagner, which is one of the finest things the orchestra does. Wagner will also be represented by his "Entrance of the Gods in Walhalla," from the last drama, "Gotterdamerung" of the Nibelung terrology.

MORE HOUSES NEEDED

DEMAND FAR GREATER THAN SUPPLY, SAY DEALERS.

Many New Comers Forced to Store Furniture and Board—Building Activity Assured.

"Unless more cottages are erected in Colorado Springs we will witness the strange spectacle of carloads of household goods standing on the tracks and all the available warehouse space filled with furniture of families who have come here to make their permanent homes."

A. P. Martin, first vice president of the Colorado Springs real estate exchange made this statement yesterday, when asked regarding the real estate situation in the city.

He said further that he believed that the present year would prove the best in the history of Colorado Springs, citing the fact that his firm had more purchasers in sight than for years, and that other dealers in the city reported practically the same conditions.

The need of modern houses, which was felt last summer and fall, is becoming more pressing than ever. Although there is already considerable building contemplated, it is not thought that there will be enough to meet the strong demand that has existed for some time. For several years there has been but little building because of the high prices of building materials. These prices, however, have been reduced materially within the past year.

According to the statements of a number of leading real estate dealers, it is a fact that people coming to the city for permanent residence can not find desirable homes. The demand is for the best class of cottages of from five to eight rooms. A large proportion of the new comers are anxious to buy their own homes, while others want to rent, records at some of the real estate offices show that there are many families waiting for houses to become vacant, being unable to find suitable cottages. These people are boarding while their furniture is in storehouses.

MEAT GOING UP FAST

SPRINGS DEALERS EXPECT TO ADVANCE PRICES.

Will Be Forced by Wholesalers to Take This Action—Fat Cattle Scarce.

Regardless of Colorado's reputation as a cattle, sheep and hog raising state, consumers of meat will probably be called upon within the next day or two to pay several cents a pound more for choice meats than they have been paying for the last few months.

Although the wholesale prices have been soaring for the past two weeks, so far there has been no general advance in the prices by retailers of Colorado Springs. A number of leading dealers stated yesterday that an increase in the present prices might be expected any time, as the wholesale price had been advanced from 20 to 25 per cent within the past two weeks and there was apparently no indication of a relapse into former prices.

Big Jump in Denver.

In Denver the retail prices have already been raised to a high figure. Lambs have gone up 3 to 5 cents a pound, and mutton has done the same. Beef going up steadily. Veal is 2 and 2½ cents a pound more, and pork, which has been very low, is 1 to 1½ cents a pound higher.

Practically the same advances may be expected in Colorado Springs. Telegrams from the big dealers in the eastern markets hold out but little hope that the market will settle back to former prices. It is even intimated that the worst has not yet come, and that prices on the choice meats may continue to soar.

Fat cattle are scarce, and the shortage will not be relieved for several months. Last fall corn was high, and the farmers sold for profits. Consequently the corn fed cattle did not fare well, and now there is a great majority of poor quality cattle.

What to Feed the Children

Proper Foods Will Make the Boy Studious and Ambitious, and Give the Girl Beauty, a Clear Complexion, and Shapely Form—Sensible Diet for Babies and for Youths at School—Effects of Breakfast Upon the Day's Activities.

By DR. G. HENRY BRINKLER,
(Author of "Suitable Foods.")

NO words can exaggerate the importance of the children's diet, for on the quality and the quantity of the foods depend the size and constitution of the man, the development of muscle and brain. Emerson places domestic reforms at the basis of all social structures. And how does woman acquit herself of the responsibility which custom places on her? Among the poor the pinched faces and ugly forms show the effects of poor diet and inferior foods. Thousands grow to manhood without one full, all-round meal. Their one object of existence is food—anything to fill up. There is not much choice.

But does the wealthy mother do as well as she ought? Does she not spend her time and care in providing the clothing to suit the caprice of fashion and feeding them with unwholesome dainties? And when they fall ill, after all this care, in dismay she sends for a doctor. Even among the wealthy the choice of food seems regulated by price rather than by a consideration of the nourishing qualities.

What would be thought of the farmer who attempted to raise fruit or grains from a soil deficient in elements necessary for their growth? And yet people continue to feed their children mainly on bread, butter, sugar and potatoes, which chiefly contain only heating properties, and then they wonder why they are stupid, dull, ugly, discontented, peevish. The woman does know that pigs cannot be fed on potato skins and that cows will not give good milk when fed on turnips. Then why should she expect good results from careless, insufficient attention to her children's diet?

Semi-Starvation.

The age of Saxon gluttony has passed. The tendency of today is the reaction of semi-starvation. The girls are taught not to eat too much for fear of becoming gross (and unacceptable to the modern followers of Byron). The scant diet on this principle at some boarding schools counterbalances the benefit of the mental training. After all, greediness does not come from eating too great a quantity or bulk as a whole, but by eating food too coarse or by taking unneeded elements in excess. Too much cereal, fatty and sugar foods and other sticky foods are apt to stick in various parts of the body, making a sluggish liver, an unshapely waist line, a double chin and coarse lips. Fresh, lean, tender meats, salad vegetables, fresh fruits, milk, etc., cannot do this.

Many mothers teach their children to rise from the table feeling hungry, just before the appetite is fully satisfied. No wonder the unsatisfied child resorts to the confections and will buy the first piece of pie offered. This cruel teaching rivals the tortures of the middle ages. It probably arose because people sometimes feel uncomfortable after a full meal and know no better remedy than eating short of satisfaction and enduring a semi-starving process. Also, students sometimes find they can study better when partly hungry. This only occurs when their diet consists of more cereal foods than their exercise demands, because cereal foods cause discomfort or disorder under these circumstances, and do not supply mental energy. After a well-arranged meal of meats, vegetables, fruits, milk and some cereals, a student can work better if fully satisfied. If foods disagree, change them, but don't starve even a little bit.

Another ascetic theory, reminding one of the hermit's cell, is to eat only one or two varieties. Man is not built of one or two varieties. His constitution is very composite. The greater the variety, the greater the chances of success on a haphazard diet.

Another teaching of the torture chamber occurs when the child is forbidden to drink at meals. It is true that too much water interferes with digestion and dilutes the gastric juices, but let vegetables, fruits and nourishing liquids supply the needed aid to digestion.

Don't try to impose on the children such mere stunts as living on hard, brown bread, mixed apples, dates and peanuts, which are cheap enough, but of poor actual nourishment.

How many nervous, depressed wrecks could be saved from the thraldom of the coffee pot by an adequate supply of nerve and brain food and exhilarating fruit juices! There are only three important classes of foods to be considered—the suitable meats, the blood-purifying, fresh, green vegetables and fruits, and the muscle-making cereals.

The growing child needs plenty of muscle-making foods, and on account of their cheapness it usually gets too much, in proportion to the neglect of the nerve-nourishing meats. If sufficient nerve nourishment were supplied and arranged there would be less toothache and nerve exhaustion among young children. Freckles, pimples and sallow complexion would disappear if sufficient green vegetables were taken with the meats and the impure and artificial foods removed from the table. Candy, cake and pie are unsuited foods for a clear complexion or for studious habits. Luscious fruits and piquant meats must take their place to insure success.

Ignorance of Food Values.

Daily we meet boys and girls who are taught about the origin of the Greeks and the Romans. They know even why the Gulf stream flows northward, but of their own foods and their effects on their studies they know nothing. The boy who went to Boston to pass an examination and entered a strange restaurant failed before he reached the examination room. He dined on the seductive Boston baked beans, cheese, apple fritters, college pudding, oysters and lobster sauce and ice cream. Instead of going to the examination with an invigorated brain, he fell asleep and in his dream Bunker Hill monument arose on his chest, while his feet seemed kicking wildly in the bay.

Food must be selected to suit the occasion. At the north pole a quart of fish oil and a pound of tallow may be very refreshing, but in temperate climates the foods which furnish muscle, bone and brain must predominate; lean, tender meats for brain and nerve energy, while cereals may predominate in a youth with growing bones and active muscles, sporting in athletic games. He will not make a permanent and pronounced success in his studies without sufficient meat.

The stout lad, strong enough to whip the teacher, but who can't do long division, surely sadly needs less oatmeal and bacon and more fresh meat to instill into his sluggish nature some semblance of mental and nervous energy.

The thin, nervous girl whose health is breaking down needs tender mutton chops, suitable milk preparations, and only the weaker kinds of cereals, as bread and rice, with fresh fruits and vegetables.

Stimulating Foods.

The fat girl who giggles at everything, but gags at the multiplication table, should have no candy, but fresh fruits for her sweetmeat, salad vegetables, meats, tomatoes, and some lemon juice to stir activity into her liver and brain.

If you want everything good to leave your child's nature, give it pie, pickles, cake, doughnuts, candy, cream puffs, sausage, canned meats, alcohol and preserves of all kinds.

On the other hand, it is not sufficient to select foods merely because they are natural. Eggs, for instance, are a dangerous food if too frequently used. As a steady article of diet they are commonly used because they are convenient to handle and cheap. The excessive sulphur in the yolk and the excessive stickiness make them sluggish in tendency. Especially do all oily, greasy and fried foods act as powerful excitants of the animal propensities. They overtax the liver and add to bad habits, which the mother so often prays to avoid, and which she forgets she produces by giving them plentifully of the foods which contain no elements which provide the mental energy, the self-control and force of will. Fresh, lean meats of the lighter kinds are the only absolutely safe foods under all circumstances. Other foods must be proportioned suitably. Fresh pork is not harmful when deprived of its fat, but the pig has a bad reputation for digestibility. Bacon and ham, though tasty, have lost their nourishing qualities. Contrasted experiments will prove that fresh meats are far superior in every way. Moreover, salt used in the curing process hardens meat and renders it less digestible.

Heavy Foods.

A boy fed on bacon, oatmeal, beef, eggs, coffee, etc., is quite likely to be rude and unruly, though by no means stupid. Estimate the bacon, keep the eggs in judicious proportion, and if the boy is athletic he will develop well. Give the lighter meats, such as mutton or lean pork, and the lighter cereals, and the boy will do better at studies. To give oatmeal every morning is a questionable practice, for while the boy is developing tone and muscle and growing fast he is confined very much at school studies, and oatmeal is suitable for heavy work, as wood chopping. Obviously, girls need it less than boys.

The thin, anaemic genius two generations ahead of his age must not be fed merely on oatmeal for breakfast, for as such a child the oatmeal will be an inside plaster, which will not have worn off during the day. No wonder cravings of appetite become perverted and ravenous. The first meal in such a case decides the fortunes of the day. An anaemic is rendered stupid; a strong boy, is rendered irritable. If the mistake is followed at luncheon by pie, candy and ice cream, his mentality is doomed for the afternoon session also. A plain sandwich of fresh meat, with a little salad vegetable and some fruit, would be more serviceable.

The infant is another proposition. However, nothing could be further from the truth to suppose that because it cannot talk it cannot tell its troubles. At least the infant never tells a lie. When it yells "Pin!" it means pin, and nothing else. Whether its vocal organ emits a gurgle or a coo of comfort or the yell of dissatisfaction, they are just squeezed out of him by the pressure of his own internal sensations. When the baby is weaned from mother's milk its troubles in life begin, because there are few mothers who reason carefully and systematically about the effects of foods. Too much cream is a common sin, because cream gives no muscle or brain-developing properties; only heat or inflammation. When puffed or feverish with clogging foods, the best remedy is temporary abstinence from cream and all cereal foods, especially patent preparations, and to feed it on fine, nutritious liquids.

The baby will thrive much better on the careful results of practical experiments than by following the chemist's directions for mineral wafers, etc., with the milk. Common-sense observations are best. Chemical analysis, for instance, declares that crushed almonds and water most nearly represent mother's milk. Yet what mother would be rash enough to adopt such a substitute? Even an adult would find to his cost that crushed almonds would make his tongue and mouth smart with the sensation of scalding, due to the excess of prussic acid in the nuts. A sensible adaptation of foods to symptoms is the most helpful.

What the Press Agents Say

"THE DISTRICT LEADER."

A musical comedy with an author will be seen at the Opera House next Monday. This rarity, "The District Leader," is from the pen of Joseph E. Howard, that prolific composer whose other efforts, "The Empire," "The Land of Nod," "The Time, the Place and the Girl," have made him famous throughout the country. On "The District Leader" Mr. Howard has used to good advantage his experience gained in writing the above named plays, and the result is something a little better than anything he has yet given to the public. A strongly developed story added to a number of extremely catchy and tuneful songs is a combination which has made "The District Leader" the hit of the season. To say that the music shows Mr. Howard at his best is enough to guarantee the attractiveness of that part of the production, and as the story itself is on an equal plane of excellence the result is a well-rounded entertainment somewhat on the order of "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway" and "The Vanderbilt Cup." Miss Ethel Dovey plays the part of Flossie Whittle, an innocent and ingenuous maiden from Teaneck, N. J., in the same fascinating way that made her a popular favorite in "The Land of Nod" and other productions. Miss Dovey's ability to portray this sort of part is unquestioned, and her singing and dancing are leading features of the play. An able company supports Miss Dovey in "The District Leader," and the chorus made up of 25 girls who can really sing and dance, helps toward the attractiveness of an entertainment that has been a success of successes all season. No advance in price. Seats now on sale at the Opera House drug store.

"FAIRYLAND," THE NEW THEATER, ATTRACTING LARGE CROWDS

The new show house, known as Fairyland, located at 118 North Teon, is proving a drawing card every show since the opening showing a bigger attendance and a more appreciative audience. Mr. Braden is using a 2,000-foot film and the subjects are new and interesting, not one of the many who has attended but who indorses the show and the splendid efforts of the management to give a good, clean and interesting entertainment. As fast as new films are produced at the east they will be presented to Colorado Springs patrons, and no expense will be spared to provide Fairyland patrons with up-to-date features. Mr. Harry Van, who provides the musical program, is proving a decided hit. His songs are new and well rendered, and his ability as a pianist is unquestioned. During the last two days five pictures have been shown. "Too Much Champagne" was probably the most appreciated picture ever seen in this city. "Pierrot's Jealousy" and "The Woodchopper's Daughter" were two very fine pictures and pleased the large audience very much. "The Charmed Umbrella" is given in colors. This is a decided novelty to Colorado Springs audiences. Mr. Braden certainly deserves a liberal patronage, for the class of entertainment he provides is just what the people want.

The program for Friday and Saturday is "The French Spy," 1,000 feet of film in itself, and "The Pearl Fishers," in colors, and "Life's Drama" will constitute one of the best shows ever given here.

BEETHOVEN RECITALS.

A series of Beethoven recitals of the pianoforte sonatas, with analysis as interpreted by Mme. Jeanette W. Crawford is being given by Mme. Crawford at her studio, 10 East Pikes Peak avenue on Saturdays of March 28th, April 4th and April 11th, at 3 o'clock.

"Mrs. Crawford is the only lady, the only person in fact, except Von Buelow, who has given these recitals in this country."—San Jose (Cal.) Herald.

"Mme. Crawford is one of the most distinguished and thorough musical scholars and analysts of the country. By eastern critics she is placed superior to all other women who have engaged in essay and analytical work in public."—Music and Drama, (San Francisco, Cal.).

"Of the analysis of Beethoven, Mme. Crawford illustrates the wonderful tone-colorings of the Sonatas so simple, and yet so correct that one untrained in music can receive much of the beauty of these musical forms."—"Herald," (Boston).

MUSIC FESTIVAL.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra will be assisted by Madame Lilian Blauvelt at the evening concert tonight. On account of delayed trains, Blauvelt's concert could not be given last night, as was originally booked, so Manager Hale arranged to have Blauvelt sing at the night symphony concert in order to give his subscribers full value of their course tickets. Madame Blauvelt's numbers will add to the length of the program materially and will make up for the lost concert last night. All people who bought single tickets for last night's concert may exchange them for either concert today at the Opera House box office.

Madame Blauvelt is returning from the coast, where she is a great favorite. She is assisted by Albert Rosenthal, cellist, and Edith Kellogg, pianist. Her numbers today will be selected from the program announced in The Gazette last Thursday morning. As a lyric soprano, Madame Blauvelt has won many laurels both in this country and abroad, and her appearance here has been looked forward to with great interest.

The San Francisco papers, on the occasion of the orchestra's visit to that city last year, said of the organization:

"When the Chicago Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Adolph Rosenbecker, last night concluded the 'Tannhauser' overture, the first number of its first program, it was favorably established with the large audience that gathered at Metropolitan hall. Certain it is that the fifty men who have come west for the series of concerts are first-class musicians well accustomed to playing together and in perfect sympathy with the director. The ensemble is compelling, rich in tone, in color and full of meaning and sympathy. The entire program was of the greatest interest.

"Rosenbecker is decidedly reminiscent of Theodore Thomas. Like the great leader he is, first of all, impassive, but giving all the time the impression of fine reserve strength; he is precise and alert and holds absolutely the attention of the musicians. There is nothing of the gymnast about this new man; beside Sousa he would be like a graven image."—Chronicle.

ARTHUR MIDDLETON,
Oratorio Singer, With the Chicago Symphony Orchestra at the Opera House Today.

"The Chicago Symphony orchestra attracted a large audience at the Metropolitan temple last night, and the well-selected program presented met with unquestioning and enthusiastic approval. It was the height of tact to begin with Wagner, today the most popular of the serious composers, go through a selection by Wieniawski and a symphony by Mendelssohn, and then break into the delightful tunefulness of a Strauss waltz.

"It goes without saying that Mr. Adolph Rosenbecker, the conductor, has his orchestra in hand, trained to play in perfect concord, under the influence of his will alone."—Bulletin.

Avoid Secret Stomach Remedies

Because Most of Them Contain Dangerous Ingredients, Which Produce the Drug Habit.

Thousands of people, having dyspepsia or stomach troubles in some form, continually "dose" themselves with all sorts of secret tonics, drugs, pills, cathartics, etc., which not only inflame and irritate the stomach and intestines, but in many cases cause the opium, morphine and cocaine habits.

You have a right and should demand to know what any medicine contains before you take it, unless it is put up or recommended by some reputable physician. Fakes and quacks will put most anything into their secret preparations, to make you like their useless stuff so as to want more of it, until it makes you the victim of some drug habit, which will ruin your health in a short time.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a secret remedy; they do not contain injurious drugs, and they are recommended by thousands of physicians in the United States and Canada to their patients for dyspepsia, catarrh of the stomach, and all other stomach troubles resulting from improper digestion of food.

These wonderful tablets actually digest food because they contain the very elements that are required of a healthy stomach to properly digest food, thus acting as a substitute and giving the overworked digestive organs a rest and a chance to regain their former health, strength and vigor.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain fruit and vegetable essences, the pure concentrated tincture of hydrastis, and golden seal, which tone up and strengthen the mucous coats of the stomach and increase the flow of gastric and other digestive juices; lactose (extracted from milk), nux, to strengthen the nerves controlling the action of the stomach; bismuth to absorb gases and prevent fermentation, and pure aseptic pepsin (90% test) of the highest digestive power. All of these are scientifically incorporated in these tablets or lozenges and constitute a complete, natural, speedy cure for any stomach trouble.

Stuart Dyspepsia Tablets are sold in large fifty-cent boxes, by all druggists.

Write us for a free sample package. This sample alone will give you sufficient relief to convince you. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

MRS. HOWELL GETS DIVORCE

Given Custody of Children and $40 a Month Alimony.

Margaret Howell was yesterday granted a decree of divorce from her husband, Gwillim J. Howell, in the district court, and was awarded the custody of the two children, aged 8 and 10 years, and $40 a month alimony. The suit for divorce was brought on the grounds of unfaithfulness and cruelty, and was not contested by the husband, who, it is claimed, confessed to his wife some time ago that he loved another woman better than he did her, though the name of the co-respondent was not brought out in the case. The husband signed over to the wife his property in this city valued at $2,500, and all the household goods. When the separation took place, last fall, Howell went to Seattle, but later returned to this city to find his wife and instituted proceedings for divorce. The couple are second cousins and both families are well known in this city. They were married in 1897.

Every honest doubt ripens into larger faith.

HERE IS RELIEF FOR WOMEN.

If you have pains in the back, Urinary, Bladder or Kidney trouble and want a certain, pleasant and prompt relief for Women's ills, try Mother Gray's "AUSTRALIAN-LEAF." It is so safe and never failing regulator, and relieves all Female Weaknesses, including inflammation and ulcerations. MOTHER GRAY'S AUSTRALIAN-LEAF is sold by Druggists or sent by mail for 50 cts. Sample sent FREE. Address, The Mother Gray Co., LeRoy, N. Y.

NEWS OF THE LOCAL COURTS

John Beham, a barber of Colorado City, was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in the county jail for assaulting Officer Roach of the Colorado City police force several days ago. The sentence was given in the district court, the man having been bound over from the court of Justice Faulkner of Colorado City.

Attorney S. H. Kinsley was yesterday granted judgment for $949 and costs in the district court on his claim for that amount against John Y. Curr for attorney's fees incurred in the defense of Curr on the charge of cattle stealing. Curr paid several hundred dollars, but protested against the remainder of the claim on the ground that it was excessive.

The nine remaining charges against Mike Altman pending in the district court for the alleged illegal sale of liquor were all nolle prossed yesterday. Altman formerly paid a large fine on two other counts and has been in the county jail for some time.

John Suggs, who last week was surrendered by his bondsmen and confined in the county jail on a charge of assault preferred by C. W. Arey, was released yesterday by Judge W. S. Morris on a bond for $1,000. He will probably be tried at the next term of court.

On the charge of having sold beer to Frank Capps, a boy 12 years old, R. A. House, living on East Santa Fe avenue, was arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriff H. C. Allward, and is now in the county jail awaiting trial for contributing to juvenile delinquency.

For having given a check on the bank with no funds to his credit while under the influence of liquor, William Flattery, a laborer, was yesterday sentenced to one day in the county jail by Justice Ruby. Flattery bought a pair of shoes from Patrick Sheridan and gave in payment a check for $4. Extenuating circumstances were found in the fact that Flattery had an account at the bank several days ago and was not aware that it had been exhausted.

James F. Dawson, an old miner of Colorado City, and W. H. Tucker, a ranchman living near Monument, were both adjudged insane in the district court yesterday. Tucker, who is a man of some means, is over 80 years of age and will be taken care of at St. Francis hospital. Dawson will be sent to the asylum at Pueblo.

It Does the Business.

Mr. F. E. Chamberlain of Clinton, Maine, says of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, "It does the business; I have used it for piles and it cured them. Used it for chapped hands and it cured them. Applied it to an old sore and it healed it without leaving a scar behind." 25c at all druggists.

DRIFTING TOWARDS BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Many people who are neglecting symptoms of kidney trouble, hoping "it will wear away," are drifting towards Bright's Disease, which is kidney trouble in one of its worst forms.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE

stops irregularities, strengthens the urinary organs and builds up the worn-out tissues of the kidneys so they will perform their functions properly. Healthy kidneys strain out the impurities from the blood as it passes through them. Diseased kidneys do not, and the poisonous waste matter is carried by the circulation to every part of the body, causing dizziness, backache, stomach trouble, sluggish liver, irregular heart action, etc.

If you have any signs of Kidney or Bladder Trouble commence taking FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE at once, as it will cure a slight disorder in a few days and prevent a fatal malady. It is pleasant to take and benefits the whole system.

How to Find Out.

You can easily determine if your kidneys are out of order by setting aside for 24 hours a bottle of the urine passed upon arising. If upon examination it is cloudy or milky or has a brick-dust sediment or small particles float about in it, your kidneys are diseased, and FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE should be taken at once.

G. B. Burhans Testifies After Five Years.

G. B. Burhans of Carlisle Center, N. Y., writes:

"About four years ago I wrote you stating that I had been entirely cured of a severe kidney trouble by taking less than two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure. It entirely stopped the brick-dust sediment and pain and symptoms of kidney disease disappeared. I am glad to say that I have never had a return of any of those symptoms during the four years that have elapsed, and I am evidently cured to stay cured, and heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Cure to any one suffering from kidney or bladder trouble."

Two Sizes, 50 Cents and $1.00.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON AND YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC

ANCIENT WISDOM ON A PRESENT PROBLEM

The International Sunday School Lesson for March 29 is a Temperance Lesson. Prov. 23:29-35.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

Knowledge is the tree of which conduct is the fruit; but the tree does not always bear! The world has known for ages, from the practical aspect, as much about the evils of intoxicating liquors as it knows today; yet, only within the past five years has society manifested any serious disposition to act in accordance with its knowledge. Now the temperance question has become the leading political issue over the whole continent, with Great Britain also taking unexpectedly radical steps toward this reform.

Applying Solomon's Wisdom.

In the long ago of the land of the grape, the contemplative ones had perceived the evils that befall the drunkard. What modern arraignment of strong drink equals that of Solomon, which constitutes today's Sunday school lesson? The familiar words have been arranged as blank verse, with chapter headings, and the title, "The Drunkard's Progress," by Professor J. Wallace Brown, of Missouri:

I.

AN ENIGMA OF THE AGES.

Who hath woe?
Who hath sorrow?
Who hath contentions?
Who hath complaining?
Who hath wounds without cause?
Who hath redness of eyes?

II.

THE CURT ANSWER OF WISDOM.

They that tarry long at the wine;
They that go to seek out mixed wine.

III.

A STRICT MORAL POINTED.

Look not thou upon the wine
When it is red,
When it sparkleth in the cup,
When it goeth down smoothly.

IV.

THE BITTER END.

At the last it biteth like a serpent,
And stingeth like an adder.
Thine eyes shall behold strange things,
And thy heart shall utter perverse things.
Yea, thou shalt be as he that lieth down in the midst of the sea,
Or as he that lieth upon the top of a mast.

V.

THE DRUNKARD'S LAST WAKING SOLILOQUY.

They have stricken me,
And I was not hurt;
They have beaten me,
And I felt it not.
When shall I awake?
I will seek it yet again.

"General Welfare" vs. "Personal Liberty."

It would be ridiculous to write a commentary upon this lesson by attempting to make clearer the perfectly obvious meaning of the text. The occasion rather calls for a statement of the present day application of the principle involved. At last the world seems to have got around to the conviction that the liquor business is everybody's business; that is to say, that the saloon has such important political, social, moral and economic relationship that practically every member of the community is concerned.

"General Welfare" is now seen to be a bigger issue than "Personal Liberty." It used to be tacitly admitted that if a man wanted to ruin his own moral fiber, make paupers of his family, commit crimes against society, and add to the burden of taxation for the upkeep of jails and almshouses and alcoholic wards in hospitals, nobody had a right to object; this was his "personal liberty."

A distinct forward step has now been taken by the widespread adoption of the principle commonly called "local option," that the majority of the citizens of a community are properly the arbiters of what sorts of business shall be carried on in their own neighborhood. No longer is it regarded as a characteristically free and American practice for a few men who are in the business of selling strong drink to be permitted to establish drinking resorts wheresoever they pleased, regardless of how many persons were offended or injured by this extension of a business, which, at its best, has never been considered public spirited. In a word, a new determination seems to be abroad, to the effect that the best, and not the worst, shall rule.

Unexpected Aids to Abstinence.

Along with this extraordinary political aspect of the present day temperance situation goes a new attitude toward it on the part of employers of labor. A few years ago public service corporations felt that they were doing employes to abstain from liquor during working hours. In the speech of the men themselves it was considered "none of the company's business what a man does out of working hours."

Today that standpoint has been left far behind. Railroads now commonly require that their employes shall be strong drink alone altogether. Neither off duty nor on duty is a man permitted to drink. Total abstinence is the imperative rule. Banks, stores and industrial establishments are advancing to the same ground. It now looks as if the man who means to drink must make that his exclusive employment.

Who Shall Wear the Laurels?

So extraordinary has been the contemporaneous success of the temperance movement that many persons are already beginning to try to fix the responsibility and to distribute the laurels. Manifestly, a great variety of forces and agencies have contributed to the present desirable situation. The Anti-Saloon league has probably been the most potent factor in achieving direct political results. John G. Woolley's years of eloquent appeal to the manhood of the churches to enter into their inheritance of power have doubtless been a contributing force. The decades of quarterly temperance lessons in the Sunday school have helped prepare the present generation of voters for the existing struggle. Christian Endeavor's good citizenship and temperance committees have not been in vain. The temperance instruction in the public school, and the other educational work of the Women's Christian Temperance union, have been essential and immeasurable influences. The pledge-signing movements, the various temperance societies, the adoption of this cause as a field for organized activity by some of the great denominations (including, of course, the powerful T. A. B. society of the Roman Catholic church), the support of powerful dailies and the general quickening of the social conscience, have all helped on the desired consummation.

Those who have done most are least desirous of the credit. They ask no greater reward than the manifest fact that the liquor traffic is today being outlawed, and a new generation of youth is having a chance to grow into sober manhood, free from the seductions of the saloon. Is it too wild a dream to hope that the day may yet come when Solomon's picture of the drunkard's progress will be understood only, like other antiquities, from literary allusions, because there will be no longer any living examples?

PROVIDENCES AND OPPORTUNITIES

Terse Comments on the Uniform Prayer Meeting Topic of the Young People's Societies—Christian Endeavor, Baptist Young People's Union, Epworth League, etc.—for March 29 is, "Home Missions: Progress in the Philippines." Matt. 13:31-33.

By William T. Ellis.

No aspect of Christian missions is more interesting than the plainly providential events which mark the progress of the missionary enterprise. Doors that have been unexpectedly opened have led into undreamed of successes. Nobody was planning a missionary propaganda in the Philippines when the conflict between Spain and the United States over Cuba produced a sensational development in this remote eastern colony of Spain. By the strange providence of God, America was thus compelled to take her station at the gateway of the orient. There she has assumed responsibility for the maintenance of the great ideals of Christian civilization. Like Great Britain, she has become a world power and a missionary agency.

All the Christian people, whatever their nationality, and irrespective of whether or not their own denomination maintains missionary work in the Philippines, must be interested in the extraordinary growth of missions in the islands since the American occupation. This is so general that today the Philippines, along with Korea, are considered by missionary experts as one of the very few places where the missionary is eagerly welcomed and actively sought. The Filipinos, thanks, doubtless, to their training by the friars, show an eager desire for a fuller knowledge of the Gospel, and an extraordinary capacity for self-support. All the missions at work in the archipelago report more work than they have the force to handle.

Political problems are at base religious. The question of who shall dominate the far east is primarily a question of what kind of principles shall rule there. If equity, tolerance and brotherliness prevail, it matters little in the long run, whose phase of international relations is at once perceived the importance of a Christian spirit on the part of the peoples who dwell in pivotal places, such as the Philippines. Let an aggressive Christianity characterize the Filipinos, and their influence will be a factor in the life of the entire eastern world.

There are not lacking signs that a new infusion of religious zeal may come to the older Christian nations by way of their own converts. The devotion of the Filipinos and Koreans, who practice their faith more diligently than those of us who have possessed Christianity longer, is at once a rebuke and an inspiration to the lands that have sent them missionaries. On this side of the world many church members have been deeply stirred by the news from these mission fields, and an eagerness to partake of the same spiritual blessings is widespread.

Wherever men have need there the church has obligation.

It was the possession of the Philippines which prompted Kipling's great poem—which may be read with a missionary significance: "Take up the white man's burden."

Take up the White Man's burden—
Send forth the best ye breed—
Go bind your sons to exile
To serve your captives' need;
To wait in heavy harness,
On fluttered folk and wild—
Your new-caught, sullen peoples,
Half-devil and half-child.

Take up the White Man's burden—
In patience to abide,
To veil the threat of terror
And check the show of pride;
By open speech and simple,
An hundred times made plain,
To seek another's profit,
And work another's gain.

Take up the White Man's burden—
The savage wars of peace
Fill full the mouth of Famine
And bid the sickness cease;
And when your goal is nearest
The end for others sought,
Watch Sloth and heathen Folly
Bring all your hope to naught.

Take up the White Man's burden—
No tawdry rule of kings,
But toil of serf and sweeper—
The tale of common things.
The ports ye shall not enter,
The roads ye shall not tread,
Go make them with your living,
And mark them with your dead.

Take up the White Man's burden—
And reap his old reward:
The blame of those ye better,
The hate of those ye guard—
The cry of hosts ye humour
(Ah, slowly!) toward the light:—
"Why brought ye us from bondage,
Our loved Egyptian night?"

Take up the White Man's burden—
Ye dare not stoop to less—
Nor call too loud on Freedom
To cloak your weariness;
By all ye cry or whisper,
By all ye leave or do,
The silent, sullen peoples
Shall weigh your Gods and you.

Take up the White Man's burden—
Have done with childish days—
The lightly proffered laurel,
The easy, ungrudged praise.
Come now, to search your manhood
Through all the thankless years,
Cold, edged with dear-bought wisdom,
The judgment of your peers!"

The undeveloped resources of human nature in the Philippines are infinitely greater than the much lauded undeveloped resources of mine and field and forest.

Ordinary provision would seem to indicate that in the not distant future momentous events will be in progress in China and Japan; and in these events the islands which have lately come under the control of the western world must play a part. It is now reasonably sure that this part will be played in the interests of justice, liberty and world-brotherhood. It may be that the agencies which are now sowing the seeds of the full gospel in the islands will reap an unexpected harvest to their own advantage.

It is as important to keep the white men in the orient true to the faith of civilization as it is to introduce to that faith the pagan natives.

In Manila, as throughout the islands, there are a company of broad-gauge, up-to-date, all-around missionaries. They stand high as men, and as active members of the community life. Protestant Episcopal church has established a place of social resort for American men, the Columbia club, which ranks above any similar organization I have ever seen. It is in reality the Cathedral parish house, although men of all denominations belong to it. The Columbia club is really a first class club for gentlemen; differing from others in that category principally by the fact that liquors are not sold in the club, and gambling is not permitted there. A more praiseworthy enterprise for white men in mission lands I have not been able to discover in a journey around the world.

NEWS AND NOTES.

The oldest existing church building on the North American continent is said to be the mission at Santa Fe, N. M., the foundation of which was laid in 1541.

An Alaska missionary who only hears from his children once a month, receives instead of letters, phonograph cylinders into which they have talked. Thus he hears their very voices.

The theological students in the German Presbyterian seminary at Dubuque, Ia., maintain among themselves a large brass band.

A new catechism is being prepared for northern Presbyterians by their board of publication, since the historic Shorter Catechism seems to be passing out of favor.

A walking race around the top of the Pekin wall, a distance of 14 miles, was recently held by the Pekin Y. M. C. A. for the men of the legation guards. There were 21 entries of four nationalities and a French soldier won the first prize and an American the second.

In connection with the licensing bill now before the British parliament, the London Congregational union's temperance committee has been looking up some figures. According to the Missionary Review of the World, it has been found as illustrative of the ramifications of the trade, that shares in three brewing companies are held by 3 dukes, 17 earls, 5 viscounts, 18 barons, 48 baronets, 31 knights, 100 honorables, 87 other reverend gentlemen, 33 doctors, 156 army officers, and 3 judges of the high court.

Seeing that the advent of the white man meant the ultimate destruction of the Eskimos' means of livelihood, Dr. Sheldon Jackson, the famous Presbyterian home missionary leader, imported a small herd of reindeer. This animal is wonderfully prolific, its flesh and milk are good for food, its hide for clothing, and it is adapted to carrying or drawing large loads in a cold climate. Fifteen years ago, there were only 16 reindeer in Alaska; today there are 15,000, and reindeer stations are being established all over Alaska, under Dr. Jackson's direction, by the United States government.

The national convention of the American Federation of Labor, in co-operation with Charles Stelzle, director of the Presbyterian department of church and labor, has changed "Labor Sunday," which was observed the first Sunday in September, to the second Sunday in May. It will henceforth be known as Labor-Memorial Sunday.

EXPECT BETTER GRADE

OPERATIONS ON FRIDAY CLAIM IMPROVING FACILITIES.

Five-Drill Electric Compressor Is Being Installed—Shaft Is Now Being Sunk.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, March 26.—The Friday Leasing company, leasing on the Friday claim of the White City company on Tenderfoot hill, immediately west of the Hoosier, is now installing a five-drill electric compressor. The new shaft on this property has now been sunk to a depth of 135 feet and it is proposed to continue sinking until the shaft is down to a depth of 250 feet when several laterals will be extended north and south and perhaps both east and west.

The Friday Leasing company has already cut no less than seven veins and several of them are of large dimension, but the values in all of the veins are of low grade, milling ore. Occasionally a few assays are obtainable that run well up and the management is of the opinion that with greater depth the values will be found to have increased materially. The property seems to be a perfect network of veins but even where junctions are found, the values has shown no material increase.

There is considerable work being done on Tenderfoot hill. The Hoosier is now and then making a shipment of ore that is of medium grade and considerable work is being done in the lower workings. Porter Hedre is doing a large amount of development work on the Boston & Cripple Creek property further north and east of the Hoosier, while Lewis and company are working on the Bob Lee. All have good showings, but so far very little ore is being sent out, even though there is an extremely low rate on treatment and transportation.

HOISTING IS RESUMED

SCHOOL SECTION LEASING COMPANY BUSY.

Ore to the Amount of $100,000 in Value Is Already Broken Down in the Property.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, March 26.—The School Section Leasing company, operating Cameron School section block No. 8, which enjoys the distinction of being the only block of mining land owned by the state which has ever paid any royalties into the state school fund, has resumed hoisting and will from now on continue to ship at the rate of one car a day. This tonnage will be shortly be increased to 10 or 12 cars per week. There is now broken down in this lease no less than $100,000 gross. The ore which is shipped from this property ranges in value from $30 to $40 in gold to the ton. The School Section Leasing company late last year expended over $10,000 in surface improvements and now has a splendid aerial tramway and a commodious and up-to-date ore house.

The School Section Leasing company has not been attempting lately to ship out any ore, having just completed the work of sinking the main working shaft to a depth of 550 feet. The pumps are kept busy and the management will shortly begin driving laterals on the bottom level. The most of the ore now being mined and which will be shipped at once, has been broken down on the fourth, fifth and sixth levels.

ORE AVERAGES ONE OUNCE

Narrow Streak Encountered in Sunshine Claim.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, March 26.—Phillips and company, who took a lease a short time ago on the Sunshine claim of the Fort Pitt company, located on Galena hill, are working on a vein in the incline shaft at an approximate depth of 700 feet. The vein is not large and the grade of ore being shipped out at the rate of about three cars per month is running about one ounce in gold to the ton. This property in the past has produced a large amount of high grade ore and it is barely possible with some more development work that a much better grade of ore will be encountered.

STOCKS ARE SLUGGISH

IRREGULARITY AGAIN CHARACTERISTIC FEATURE.

Prices Once Again Not Sufficiently Favorable to Warrant Further Rise in Prices.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Irregularity was again the most characteristic feature of the stock market today. The undertone was heavy at the outset, with several manifestations of strength, but in the main hesitating. There was steady selling of the most active issues, notably the steels and Union Pacific, and board room gossip credited the most influential speculative element with favoring a reaction. This feeling seemed to be based on the belief that the general situation, more particularly business in industrial lines, does not warrant a further rise at this time. There is at best only a small increase in commission house business and the bulk of today's operations was again professional.

Announcement of the resumption on April 1 of full time at the Reading collieries gave stimulus to Reading and other coal shares. Latest advices dealing with the steel and iron trade were not especially encouraging, according to the best authorities, a halt in the volume of new business having set in during the past fortnight and the improvement noted in the latter part of January and February has not been maintained.

Continued dullness is reported in all grades of pig iron. On the other hand, it was asserted in trustworthy quarters that the demand for copper has forced that metal higher. Reductions in the dividends of Pacific Coast common and second preferred resulted in substantial declines in those issues.

Union Pacific fluctuated feverishly and broke from 129¾ to 125¾, when it became known that the new financing plan contemplates an issue of perhaps $30,000,000 bonds. The street was greatly disappointed at the news, also at the failure of the developments regarding the so-called Union Pacific "segregation plan." Southern Pacific, which developed unusual activity and strength in the early session, lost some of its gain however, but in the final hour the market showed diminished force, with renewed attacks by the short interests. The closing was steady, with prices rallying.

From abroad the only noteworthy feature was the weekly report of the Bank of England, whose reserves declined to 48.80 per cent, against 51.90 per cent last week. This exhibit however, was vastly better than that reported by the same institution a year ago. Monetary conditions were unchanged, there being little demand. Gross earnings of 80 railroads for the second week of March show a decrease of 12.44 per cent, compared with the corresponding week of last year. For the third week of this month, 10 roads show a falling off of 12.73 per cent.

The bond market was irregular, with government issues unchanged on call. Total sales, par value, $4,170,000.

GOOD VEIN IN PRINCE ALBERT

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, March 26.—Thomas Head, who has been leasing on the Prince Albert property on the southeast slope of Beacon hill for several years, is now shipping out ore from a surface hole, which has been sunk to an approximate depth of 30 or 35 feet. Mr. Head discovered the ore at grass roots and has followed it down to its present depth. The vein is now over four feet wide or in other words covers the entire bottom of the shaft. The ore is giving returns of from $25 to $30 in gold to the ton.

WHEAT CLOSES STRONG

SENTIMENT IN PIT BULLISH ALMOST ALL DAY.

Absence of Rain in Kansas Is Strengthening Influence Corn Market Dull—Oats Quiet.

CHICAGO, March 26.—Sentiment in the wheat pit was bullish almost the entire day, although the market experienced an occasional setback because of profit-taking sales. The most pronounced decline occurred during the final hour, but the reaction was of short duration and was followed by a sharp rally, which carried prices to a new high point for the day. The market closed strong at almost the top notch. Firm cables, small receipts in the northwest and the continued absence of rain in Kansas were the chief strengthening influences. The principal demand came from shorts, although commission houses were also active buyers late in the day. May opened ⅛c to ¼c higher at 94⅛c to 94⅜c, sold off to 91⅞c 91⅝c and then advanced to 93⅝c where it closed. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 135,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 372,000 bushels, compared with 772,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 397 cars, against 332 cars last week and 821 cars a year ago.

Business in the corn pit lacked the snap that had characterized trading for some time, and sentiment was inclined to be bearish. Bull leaders apparently made no attempt to support the market, and throughout the entire day there was more or less selling by local and outside longs. The market manifested a little firmness at the start, owing to the strength of wheat, and again near the close prices advanced in sympathy with the late upturn in wheat. Country acceptances were again light and demand for cash grain was slow. The market closed steady. May opened ⅛c to ¼c higher at 61c to 61⅛c, sold off to 59⅞c and closed at 60⅜c to 60⅝c. Local receipts were 142 cars, with five of contract grade.

Trade in oats was very quiet and prices moved over an extremely narrow range. May opened ⅛c higher at 34⅛c, advanced ¼c and closed 3/16c higher. Local receipts were 178 cars.

Provisions were strong all day on an active investment demand, and by brisk buying by shorts. Pork was in especially good demand and showed the greatest gain. May delivery at the close was up 12½c at $12.90. Lard was 7½c higher at $7.37. Ribs were 10@7½c higher at 8c.

HUMBLE FARE FOR PRINCE OF WALES.

From Tit-Bits.

To living the healthy, open-air life of a country gentleman, the Earl of Leicester attributes his longevity. Even now in his old age he eats heartily of simple fare and drinks a glass of ale for luncheon. Neither does he pamper his guests, as may be judged from the fact that on one occasion, when the Prince of Wales was shooting at Holkham, Lord Leicester's Norfolk seat, it was announced formally at the breakfast table that the game cart would carry a luncheon consisting of bread and cheese, raw onions and beer, and that anyone who would like anything extra could cut a sandwich at the side table and put it in his pocket. The Prince of Wales was one of those who availed himself of this suggestion. He cut his sandwich and pocketed it for a frugal luncheon later in the day.

The best slingers of the Roman army were from the Balearic isles. Boys were trained to early proficiency by having their dinners suspended from the tree and being required to cut the string [illegible]
